What is MSU HEP

The High School Equivalency Program (HEP) is a federal, migrant education program designed to meet the special needs of migrant and seasonal farmworkers in pursuit of a General Educational Development (GED) diploma. The objective of HEP is to assist these students in preparation and successful completion of GED exams. HEP will provide assistance for placement in universities, colleges, vocational institutions, military services, other post-secondary activities or career positions. HEP is funded by the U.S Department of Education, Office of Migrant Education.

Definition of migrant/seasonal farmwork:

Migrant Farmworker: a seasonal farmworker whose employment required travel that kept the farmworker from returning to their permanent home within the same day.

Seasonal Farmworker: a person who was employed in farmwork on a temporary or seasonal basis.

¿Qué es MSU HEP?

El Programa de Equivalencia a Escuela Secundaria (HEP) es un programa federal diseñado para ayudar a los trabajadores agrícolas a obtener el certificado equivalente a la escuela secundaria (high school) de los Estados Unidos. El objetivo principal del programa es ayudar a los estudiantes en la preparación del examen de equivalencia (GED) y así establecer metas vocacionales a largo plazo. El programa ofrece orientación en el seguimiento de estudios universitarios, estudios en instituciones vocacionales, servicio militar, y la ubicación de trabajos vocacionales. El programa HEP está establecido a través de la Oficina de Educación al Migrante del Departamento de Educación de los Estados Unidos.

Definición de un trabajador migrante y un trabajador temporal:

Trabajador Migrante: un trabajador campesino cuyo trabajo requiere que viaje y el cual no le permite regresar a su hogar permanente el mismo día.

Trabajador Temporal: es una persona que ha sido empleada en trabajos temporales relacionados con la agricultura.
